

PRESS RELEASE

Open House Macau

List of 50 buildings now unveiled

Open House Macau (OHM) is delighted to unveil the list of 50 unique buildings that will open doors to uncover the untold architecture history(ies) of Macau on November 10 and 11.

The programme of visits was carefully crafted according to the buildings' unique contribution to the city's culture and fabric, and aiming to offer an eclectic perspective of Macau's built landscape. It is organized in five different architectural periods – Vernacular, Neoclassical, Art Deco, Modernist, and Contemporary – and encompasses a wide range of examples, from palaces to power stations, schools to fire stations, temples to markets, piers, houses, museums, restaurants, libraries, footbridges, patios, and more. Fifty opportunities to celebrate the architectural richness of Macau!

Three types of visits will be available: free self-guided visits, guided visits by volunteers, and commented visits by specialists. All free of charge! CURB advises visitors to carefully plan the weekend ahead, and make sure to grant a spot at registration-only visits. Online registration for guided tours will start on November 2 at the event's website and updated information will also be available on the event's Facebook page.

“Open House is the key to know and transforming a modern public space”

Victoria Thornton, President and founder of Open House Worldwide

Curated and organised by CURB – Center for Architecture and Urbanism, OHM is the first and only Open House event in Asia and will take place on November 10-11. OHM will allow the public to get a glimpse of 50 notable buildings, free for all to join.

Established in 1992 in London, by Victoria Thornton, Open House conveys a simple but powerful concept: to invite everyone to explore and debate the value of a well-designed built environment, entirely for free.

Organized by:

The event's enormous success amid visitors has made it grow to become an international network – Open House Worldwide –, of which CURB is a partner, one of the most important global institutions for the promotion of architecture, gathering 40+ cities across 4 continents, and reaching more than 750,000+ visitors each year.

A great thanks to all building owners who generously joined Open House Macau, opening the doors of their great buildings for all to visit!
